House Plants for Health & Style

Style

Houseplants became less popular in the 2000's as folk started picking up bunches of cut flowers with their weekly shopping. Recently this trend has changed and houseplants are once again being used in our homes to bring style and life into our lives. What are you growing in your home?

Health

Many houseplants remove contaminants from the air we breathe in our homes. NASA researched the best varieties when they were looking to keep the air pure in space stations. Modern materials and equipment release unpleasant chemicals in the air.

It has been shown that having houseplants in our homes relaxes us, cheers us up and generally enriches our lives.
